GBL Vision

The Golden Baseball League, presented by Safeway, Inc., is dedicated to bringing professional independent baseball back to Western North America. Within the next five years, Golden Baseball plans to expand to a 16 team league on the American and Canadian western markets.

The League will play in a combination of City and University owned stadiums and work collaboratively to market professional baseball in each of our communities. The League will allow communities to experience the wonder of America's pastime and give children of all ages their first exposure to the great game of professional baseball.

The League plays in fan-friendly facilities that will provide a fun and safe environment for families. Players will be well integrated into the community and will spend time at schools, camps, business lunches, and local events. With the League's support and encouragement, players will be given the opportunity to improve their skills and move up to the Major Leagues.

COACHES

JON MACALUTAS

TEAM MANAGER

The 33-year-old Macalutas has been a fixture in the area's baseball scene for several years. Before joining the Outlaws in 2005, he was a Western Baseball League All-Star as a member of the Chico Heat and has operated his successful baseball school for the past five years. The Stockton, California native enjoyed a seven-year pro career, signing with the Western Baseball League's Salinas Peppers in 1996 out of Cal Poly San Luis Obispo before having his contract purchased by the Milwaukee Brewers in June of that year. Macalutas spent five seasons in the Brewers farm system, reaching double-A Huntsville in 1999 and playing with future major leaguers Ben Sheets, Geoff Jenkins, Jose Valentin, Kelly Wunsch, Fernando Vina and Hideo Nomo.

Macalutas joined the Chico Heat in 2001, and in his two seasons with the club established himself as one of the WBL's most consistent hitters – in 171 games, Jon piled up 219 hits and batted a combined .318, averaged 30 extra-base hits a year, stole 50 bases and drove in 124 runs, helping the Heat capture the 2002 Western Baseball League championship. After attending spring training with the Florida Marlins in 2003, Macalutas elected to retire from proball and settle in Chico full-time to concentrate on opening his baseball school. He finished with a .290 career batting average, 58 home runs, 391 RBI and 116 stolen bases.

CHRIS CORSO

HITTING COACH

Corso has had a unique baseball career, with stints as a player, coach and bat manufacturer. A Bay Area native who now resides in Chico, Chris was a two-time all-conference catcher at Cal State Hayward before signing with the Florida Marlins in 1994. Corso played one season with the single-A Kane County Cougars before injuries forced hit to miss the entire '95 season.

Chris served as catching coach for Cal State Hayward prior to joining the independent Western Baseball League's Salinas Peppers in 1996, but was hurt again and saw limited action. Corso finished his career in 1998 with the WBL's Western Warriors (managed by former Chico Heat skipper Charley Kerfeld), then founded Sandlot Stiks, a wood bat manufacturing company supplying many minor league players.

Over the past several years Chris has continued to produce bats as well as develop a variety of coatings and stains for wood decks and counters.

REECE BORGES

PITCHING COACH

The 31-year-old Borges takes over for Alex Carbajal, who has accepted a job with the Upper Deck Card and Collectibles company. Long-time Chico baseball fans already know Reece well – for three seasons he was one of the anchors of the Chico Heat pitching staff, and for two years Borges was the pitching coach under Anthony Fello at Butte College.

As a player, Reece spent six years in the pro ranks – the right-hander from Reno, Nevada was drafted by the Florida Marlins in 1996 after starring at Lassen Junior College. Borges spent two seasons in the Marlins system and another in the Houston Astros organization, and among his teammates during that time were present major league pitchers Johan Santana, Roy Oswalt, A.J. Burnett and infielder Aaron Miles.

In 2000 Reece came to Chico and immediately became the workhorse of the Heat pitching staff, posting a 10-4 record and a 3.32 earned run average with four complete games and a pair of shutouts, winning the Western Baseball League's "Pitcher of the Week" award three times during the season. Borges battled injuries over the next two years, but still managed to notch nine victories for the Heat plus a pair of playoff wins and was a member of the Chico's 2002 WBL championship team. Reece retired following the '02 season with the third most career victories (19) in franchise history, and ranked second all-time among Heat pitchers in innings pitched (275), third in complete games (4) and fourth in strikeouts (174).

Borges lives in Chico with his wife Allison and son Dominic.

STEVE YEAGER

TEAM MANAGER

Steve Yeager is the current field manager of the Long Beach Armada Professional Baseball Team. In addition to his playing career, Yeager has managed and coached in the independent minor leagues and in the Dodgers farm system at levels up through Triple-A. Yeager led the Long Beach Breakers to the Western Baseball League championship in 2001.

Yeager was a fourth round draft choice by the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1967 out of Meadowdale High School in Dayton, Ohio. He climbed quickly through the Dodgers farm system, earning All-Star honors in Double-A and establishing a reputation as one of the finest young defensive catchers in professional baseball. He broke into the majors late in 1972 with the Dodgers. His command of the game and throwing ability were key to the Dodgers advancing to the World Series four times in his career, capped by the 1981 World Series victory over the New York Yorkees when Yeager shared MVP honors with teamments Padro Guerrary and the New York Yankees when Yeager shared MVP honors with teammates Pedro Guerrero and Ron Cey.

Called by Lou Brock the greatest throwing catcher of all-time, he was also dangerous at the plate as he belted 102 home runs in his career, had a lifetime batting average of .321 with the bases loaded, and had a career World Series batting average of .298 during his four October classics. He continued to be part of the Dodger organization after his playing career ended as he coached future Dodgers in Single-A, Double-A, and Triple-A since the 1990s. Current Dodger players Russell Martin, James Loney, Andy LaRoche, Matt Kemp, Andre Ethier, Tony Abreau, and a slew of others have all been under Yeager's tutelage throughout their rise to the big leagues.

Dodger and baseball fans alike hold Yeager close to their hearts as a fan favorite for his hardnosed play and also for his entertaining lifestyle. Whether it was appearing in all three Major League movies as coach Duke Temple, dancing on the television show Solid Gold, or being featured in one of National Geographic's Top 100 All-Time photos as he planted a kiss on Dodger bench coach Monty Basgall's head in the dugout during a game, Yeager always had fun both on and off the field. Yeager is credited for inventing the catcher's throat protector now worn at all levels of baseball after he was hit in the throat by a broken bat during a Dodger game in 1976. Yeager is also a cousin of famed test-pilot Chuck Yeager

CORY SNYDER

TEAM MANAGER

Cory Snyder was selected in the first round (4th overall) of the 1984 draft by the Cleveland Indians after an outstanding collegiate career at Brigham Young University where he earned All-American honors as a shortstop and was Baseball America Freshman of the Year in 1982. In 1984, he played for the first U.S.

Olympic Baseball team, won the silver medal and followed with a nine year major league career.

Snyder recorded his best season in 1987 with the Indians when he hit 33 home runs and 82 RBI. He was well known for his powerful throwing arm, home run power and a high tendency to strike out. Snyder's overall career numbers were hurt due to injuries.

Snyder was a feared slugger, who cracked 115 home runs in his first five seasons with the Tribe. He was an exceptional defensive outfielder leading the American League in outfield assists. Snyder retired after the 1994 season.

Snyder is in his second year managing the Roadrunner. He resides with his family in Mapleton, Utah.

TEAM MANAGER

Mike Marshall enjoyed a spectacular career in professional baseball. He was drafted in the 6th round by the Los Angeles Dodgers out of Buffalo Grove High School in Illinois. In five seasons in the minors, he never hit under .324 and was named Minor League Player of the Year in 1981 for his Triple Crown winning season in the Pacific Coast League (AAA) for the Albuquerque Dukes. Marshall joined the Dodgers late in 1981 and became a fixture in their starting lineup for the rest of the decade.

In his 11-year major league career, he appeared in the playoffs five times including winning the World Series with the 1988 Dodgers. Marshall earned National League All-Star honors in 1984, was in the Top 15 in MVP voting in 1985. He retired in 1991.

In the late 1990s, Marshall held the coaching positions with the Schaumburg Flyers, Manager and Manager/GM of the Albany Diamond Dogs, and manager of the El Paso Diablos. In addition, he served two years as Vice President of Operations for the Northern League.

LEAGUE HISTORY

GOLDEN BASEBALL LEAGUE DEBUT IN 2005

The inaugural 2005 season for the upstart Golden Baseball League was full of high quality professional baseball, memorable and wacky promotions, historic international moments, and fun for families across the Western United States. The League was the vision of Dave Kaval and Amit Patel and started as a class project at the Stanford Graduate School of Business. The League's twin mission is to provide high quality affordable family entertainment while giving professional baseball players another chance to fulfill their dream to play in the Big Leagues.

Experienced managers with big league careers quickly joined the league to form the most accomplished slate of managers in independent baseball. Terry Kennedy, Garry Templeton, Darrell Evans, and Ozzie Virgil were all major league All-Stars. Warren Cromartie was the MVP of the Japan League, while Mark Parent, Les Lancaster, and Benny Castillo all had distinguished playing careers as well. Potential players flocked to the league with over 1400 registering online for the initial league-wide tryouts in Fullerton, CA in December of 2004, forcing the league to cut 1000 by email so the tryout could be manageable. A record 62 players were signed at that tryout, with seven of those player's contacts later purchased by major league organizations. The remaining roster spots were quickly filled with experienced minor leaguers and 15 ex-major leaguers. The ex-major leaguers included Rickey Henderson, who played the entire season with the San Diego Surf Dawgs.

Twenty-eight players from GBL rosters would be acquired by major league organizations prior to spring training of 2006, giving the league a superb reputation with players, agents, and scouts as a source of exceptional baseball talent. The league enjoyed extensive media exposure due to the unique nature of the league and a number of firsts or notable achievements. The USA Today, NY Times, LA Times, New Yorker Magazine, Forbes Magazine, San Francisco Chronicle, Sports Illustrated, Baseball America, Japan Times, CNN, ESPN, and numerous business publications and local newspapers featured the league and it's teams. The founding of the league out of Stanford Business School, the single-entity nature of the league, and the substantial financial resources were early stories. Rickey Henderson signing with the league, the development of the toughest drug testing program in U.S. professional sports, the inclusion of the first ever team from Japan to compete as a regular member of a U.S. professional sports league, and even the military siege and takeover of the league's team and stadium in Tijuana, Mexico made news around the world as the first season approached.

The 90-game season began on May 26th with league co-owner Pat Sajak throwing out the first pitch in Surprise, Arizona as the Surprise Fightin' Falcons battled the Japan Samurai Bears to kickoff the season. Split into two divisions – Arizona with Surprise, Mesa, Yuma, and Japan – California with Chico, Long Beach, Fullerton, and San Diego – four teams would reach the playoffs in a unique Championship Tournament to be held on Labor Day weekend at the end of August at Blair Field in Long Beach. San Diego started hot and built a big lead to take the California Division crown leading the entire season. In the Arizona Division, the Mesa Miners, led by manager Les Lancaster, who has taken his independent minor league teams to the playoffs in six of seven years he has managed, won the Division pennant after battling a strong Yuma squad that led much of the first half and a resurgent Surprise team that had the best record in the league over the last month. The two wildcard berths weren't nailed down until the next to last day of the season as the Long Beach Armada and the Chico Outlaws finished strong to reach the playoffs. In the Championship Game, the San Diego Surf Dawgs prevailed over the Mesa Miners to claim the inaugural Golden Baseball League title.

Notable individual achievements during the year include GBL MVP Desi Wilson (Surprise) with a .411 batting average and a 31-game hitting streak, GBL Pitcher of the Year Grant Gregg (Chico) with a 12-2 record and 1.97 ERA that garnered him Baseball America honors as well as a contract from the Chicago Cubs, Rookie Pitcher of the Year Manny Ayala (Mesa) with his 12-4 record as one of the youngest in the league at age 20 which earned him a contract with the San Diego Padres and a rise through their organization to Triple-A Portland in the Pacific Coast League at the time of this printing, Seth Johnson (Chico) and his no-hitter of the Japan Samurai Bears, and the Japan Samurai Bears who started slow winning just two of their first twenty games but came storming back to just miss the all-time record for most wins by a traveling team in independent baseball.

The fans provided tremendous support across the league as more than 450,000 turned out to cheer for their local team. The Yuma Scorpions and Chico Outlaws led the league in attendance. Memorable moments occurred across the league with Japanese cheering sections sprouting up in Long Beach and Fullerton, a penguin wandering through the stadium in 110-degree heat in Yuma, a world record for whoopee cushion sitting in Yuma, Peter O'Malley and Tommy Lasorda appearing in Long Beach at a number of games, dance teams, high school bands, wacky and fun mid-inning promotions for kids of all ages, fireworks, great baseball, and fun and affordable family entertainment enjoyed by all.

On the business side, the GBL utilized its regional nature to do several innovative deals with league wide sponsors. The league secured the largest non-naming rights deal ever done in minor league sports when Safeway came aboard as the league's presenting sponsor. Numerous deals were secured with equipment vendors that saw the value of sponsoring an entire league, as well as other regional businesses such as Southwest Airlines and Downey Savings. It's teams also were deeply involved in their local communities as they partnered with youth sports organizations, developed reading, math, and science programs with local schools, ran fundraisers for local charitable organizations, sponsored numerous non-profit organization's programs and events, and were active in the chamber of commerce and major charitable organizations in their markets.
